Details

Description

The Swedish company produces a wide range of vacuum formed plastic food packaging products used in various aspects ranging from fresh made dishes like salads, sandwiches and lunches to custom made packaging solutions for sweets, chocolate and other food related products. The client is in addition to this also starting to produce products to the consumer electronic packaging industry and is constantly developing their offer to their customer base. In addition to the traditional PET (Amorphous Polyethylene Terephthalate) sheets used in their production they are also producing packaging products made out of PP/CHALK sheets for which they are looking to find additional suppliers.
